DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-4, 7-10, 13-16, and 19-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Brisebois (U.S. Patent 6,219,679 B1).

As per claims 1, 7, 13, and 19, Brisebois discloses a method, apparatus, computer program product, and computer system containing a processor and memory for bookmarking a section of a Web page including storing the network address (or URL) of the page (See Brisebois, Figure 3A, and Column 4, lines 62-63), and storing the section of the page such that when the network address or URL is used to access and display the page, the section of the page is displayed. (See Brisebois, Column 1, lines 54-67).

As per claims 2, 8, 14, and 20, Brisebois also discloses that the section of the page being stored is the section of the page displayed when the network address or URL is stored. (See Brisebois, Column 1, lines 57-67).

As per claims 3, 9, 15, and 21, Brisebois also discloses storing the current size of a window within which the page is displayed. (See Brisebois, Figure 3C, and Column 5, lines 33-36).

As per claims 4,10,16, and 22, Brisebois also discloses storing positions of scroll boxes in scroll bars in the window. (See Brisebois, Figure 3D, and Column 5, lines 49-53).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 5-6, 11-12, 17-18 and 23-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Brisebois (U.S. Patent 6,219,679 B1) as applied to claims 4, 10, 16, and 22 above, and further in view of Littlefield (U.S. Patent 6,564,208 B1).

As per claims 5, 11, 17, and 23, Brisebois discloses the limitations of claims 4, 10, 16, and 22 as described above. Brisebois does not disclose expressly storing font attributes of the displayed page. Littlefield discloses storing font attribute information within a search result web page. (See Littlefield, Column 5, lines 55-59). Brisebois and Littlefield are analogous art because they are from the same field of endeavor of storing Web page information. At the time of the invention it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to combine the storing of font attribute information of Littlefield with the storing of the section of the Web page of Brisebois. The motivation for doing so would have been to display the text items of the Web page that contain non-default font attributes using the non-default font attributes specified in the Web page. (See Littlefield, Column 5, lines 54-59). Therefore, it would have been obvious to combine Littlefield with Brisebois for the benefit of displaying text using the font attributes specified in the Web page to obtain the invention as defined in claims 5, 11, 17, and 23.

As per claims 6, 12, 18, and 24, Brisebois and Littlefield disclose the limitations of claims 5, 11, 17, and 23 as described above. Brisebois also discloses storing X-Y coordinates of the window and the scroll boxes. (See Brisebois, Figure 3A, Column 4, lines 62-67, Column 5, lines 1-2, and Column 6, lines 45-53).

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

- Kanno (U.S. Patent 6,526,424 B2) discloses a browser image display bookmark system.
- Montalbano (U.S. Patent 5,918,237) discloses A system and method provide a multimedia bookmark for a hypertext markup language file that has Universal Resource Locator (URL).
- IBM Technical Disclosure Bulletin, January 1998, "Internal Placemarks for Uniform Resource Locator Bookmark Operations" discloses a method to expand the definition of URL bookmarking to incorporate additional information.
